Literary Items.

(Selected.)

Mr. Charles Reade has written a new play called "A Brave Wife."

Robert Browning's forthcoming new volume of poems is entitled "La Saisiaz; or, The Two Poets of Croisic."

Mr. Van Laun is writing a book upon a very captivating subject—the history of Literary Exiles in England.

Mr. Alfred Tennyson, it is said, regards the dramas of "Harold" and "Queen Mary" as his best and highest works.

Lord Beaconsfield has consented, it is said, that "Henrietta Temple" shall be dramatized, and the work is now going on.

Dr. Francis Hueffer is about to publish a work on "The Troubadours," being a history of Provencal literature of the Middle Ages.

Wm. O. Stoddard has written a serial entitled "Dab-Kinzer: A Story of a Growing Boy," which will in good time make its appearance in "St. Nicholas."

Mr. Wyatt Eaton has completed a remarkable crayon head of Mr. Bryant, which will be engraved by Cole for an early number of "Scribner's Monthly."

B. P. Shillaber has written a new book for boys (it will be published by Lee & Shepard), in which Mrs. Parlington and Ike renew themselves for a new generation.

Carleton & Co.'s new book by Sothern, the actor, "Birds of a Feather Flock Together," will contain twelve illustrations of Sothern in his most famous characters.

It is feared that Mr. Ruskin, who is not yet 60 years of age, is in a more critical condition than if his life were in immediate danger. His physicians think that his mental faculties are permanently eclipsed.

Mr. Emerson's lecture in Boston the other night was an argument for temperance in language. "Superlatives," he said, "are diminutives, and weaken. The positive is the sinew of speech; the superlative the fat."

Mr. Motley's preparation for writing his famous history compelled an enormous amount of work. Besides his own constant labor for years, he kept two copyists engaged in London and two others at the Hague.

In Blanchard Jerrold's "Biography of George Cruikshank," shortly to appear, an original drawing, "The Gas Fleas," by the author's friend Gustave Doré, will appear as frontispiece to the second, or temperance epoch of the great caricaturist's life.

Mr. Edwin P. Whipple has written out his "Recollections of Rufus Choate," transferring the "passions, & throb of the Jawyer rhetorician" from his own copious memory to the manuscript, and the paper will appear in an early number of "Harper's Magazine."

In the last volume of his "Life of John Milton," Professor David Masson shows good grounds for the belief that Milton was an early English journalist—at any rate, that he was a writer of leading articles in "Xerxes's Magazine Publicus," one of the earliest English weekly newspapers.

Thomas A. Edison, inventor of the phonograph, will contribute to the May-June number of the "North American Review" an article on "The Phonograph and its Future," in which he will tell what has been accomplished with the wonderful instrument, and what may reasonably be expected of it.

A new volume of Longfellow's popular and long-to-be-popular series, "Poems of Places," a collection no private library can afford to be without, has just appeared (Houghton, Osgood & Co.). It gleams the fields of Purdon and Ardenian poetry referring to Russia and Poland.

G. P. Putnam's Sons have just published the first volume of their projected series of "Current Discussions," the present one referring to "International Politics," and comprising "Archibald Forbes" (stay-on-

"The Russians, Turks and Bulgarians"; Vice-Stratford de Redcliffe's "Turkey"; Hon. W. E. Gladstone's "Montenegro."

A collection of biographical anecdotes and letters of, or relating to, the late King of Italy, has been made by Isaia Ghiron, and will shortly be published at Milan under the title of "Biographical Records of Victor Emmanuel." A biography of the same monarch, by Herr Edward Ruffner, the historical and military writer, is also about to appear at Vienna.

Sir Joshua Reynolds is the subject of a new volume, the seventh of the "Artist's Biographies" (Houghton, Osgood & Co.), just published, a volume perhaps more largely interesting than any preceding one of the series, from the fact of the great English painter's relations with many other persons of household fame in literature and the drama, as well as in the sphere of art.

The Royal Spanish Academy has announced that a gold medal, with a sum equal to about $725, will be awarded to the author of the best work on the destruction and peculiar characteristics of the ancient Spanish theatre and dramatic poets, from the middle of the sixteenth century to the time of Cervantes y Zuniga, the author in addition to receive five hundred copies of his work, to be printed at the expense of the Academy.

Prof. William Mathews seems to be one of the most popular authors in the United States. His "Getting on in the World" has reached a circulation of 18,000, and has just been issued in the Swedish language at Stockholm. His books altogether have had a sale of 68,000 copies. Benjamin F. Taylor's "Between the Gates" has already reached a second edition of 2,500 copies, and S. C. Griggs & Co. have hard work to meet the demand for it.

It is always pleasant to announce a new volume by Longfellow. Houghton, Osgood & Co. have in press and will this week publish "Keramos and Other Poems," comprising with the picturesque poetical sketch of the achievements of the potter's art in all lands and ages, the many striking poems and nobly beautiful sonnets Mr. Longfellow has allowed to appear in the Atlantic Monthly and other magazines since the publication of "The Masque of Pandora," etc., in 1875. The new volume will also doubtless contain some pieces not hitherto given to the public.

Editor from Ouray.

To the Editor of the Gazette.

There are moments in life when the spirit it receives.

Whole volumes of thought on its unwritten leaves.

That kind of moments are not such as your Sam Juan correspondent can claim for his own at the date of this writing still Ouray and her surroundings suggest thoughts that it is not, perhaps, best that we should enjoy alone the thoughts that have been uppermost in the minds of our population during the past winter relate specially to the "Ute reservation" and Congressional action with reference to the extinguishment of the Indian title thereto.

Senator Chaffee's bill, providing for the concentration of the Utes at the White River Agency, and the abolition of the two southern agencies, having passed the Senate, and been recommended for passage by the House Committee, freed our people with poetic conceptions of the future prosperity of our country, and has stimulated all our "Micawbers" to aggressive activities.

Anticipating the end from the fluttering beginning of "Wide-a-wakes," reaching from here to Del Norte, have already entered upon the Ute lands, and located five miles of the Uncompahgre river, extending from the mouth of Dry Creek up the river to within twelve miles of Ouray, and the lands adjacent upon either side, for placer mining purposes. Two other companies overlap the Del Norte company, so that with the Utes undisputed title, and the overlying claims, the prospects good for early novelty for the district.

None of the companies are throwing the gravel very fast at present, but all of them doubtless will do if Chavigno and his warriors should some morning disturb their slumbers with the piercing shrieks of the savage war-hoop.
